There would not be a budget impact. We do not anticipate an uptick in students. It will just ensure equal access for students. University of the Northwestern takes more public dollars than any other post secondary. So while there may not be more than a handful of schools that ask for this, in terms of participants it is very large.

We have multiple complaints regarding them from both current students and students who would not provide a faith statement. For every one student who contacts us I cannot believe there are many more times that number that we do not hear about. The things we hear are extremely troublesome. Public dollars should not be used for this.

I've sent this on for confirmation. But I do know that Northwestern University, generates the most concurrent enrollment revenue of all post secondary institutions.

Sending a reminder on this. Do we know how many schools currently require faith statements?

Question from MMB – do you know how many students this would enable to enroll in PSEO? Or how many schools?

- 1810—PSEO & Faith statement. Will more students be enrolled in PSEO because of this proposal? Our intent is that the handful of students that have not been able to enroll in PSEO or potentially in their preferred PSEO program would be able to do so, so yes, there would potentially a few ADM of shifting here. So that's a budget item, I assume? I spoke with Ahna—how many schools would this impact? (i.e. how many schools require a faith statement)?
